Why Birds "Beak" You . There are several reasons that a bird might beak you as opposed to giving you a true bite. First, birds routinely use their beaks as a third hand to test the strength of perches to generally check out the physical rigidity of all climbing structures, including its owner's hand before they step up. New bird owners often confuse this exploratory beak usage with being bitten.

The duck test is a form of abductive reasoning. This is its usual expression: If it looks like a duck, swims like a duck, and quacks like a duck, then it probably is a duck. The test implies that a person can identify an unknown subject by observing that subject's habitual characteristics. It is sometimes used to counter abstruse arguments that something is not what it appears to be. History ...
